Patriotic Helena is Not Behind in Paying Respect to the Immortal George.

A Public Meeting at Assembly Hall in Which Our Citizens Most Heartily Join.

Patriotic Speeches Made by Judge Mc-Connell and Col. Sanders-The Germans Celebrate.

The one-hundredth anniversary of the inauguration of George Washington as president of the United States was as fittingly celebrated in Helena, as elsewhere. pursuant to proclamations from president, governor and mayor. The stores were plosed as a general thing, but to the regret of many a few were kept open. At nine o'clock the church bells rang out a peal which announced the inaugural, and for a half an hour the chimes sounded. Everybody was jubilant and patriotic, and with one accord seemingly flocked to Assembly hall, where the public services were held. The union service of prayer and thanks-which was sung by the audience. After co clusion of the song Chairman E. D. Ladies and gentlemen: We are met this morning to commemorate the begin neng of the greatest era in the history of mankind. All over the American republic is celebrated at this hour the one hundredth day at 8 celebrated at the train will pass the important towns in daylight. It is bound for Portland started on its journey last Saturday at 8 celebrated at this hour the one hundredth anniversary of the commencement of popular self government [Applause.] No greater event ever transpired in the history of the world. The American government was the growth and outcome of all the civilization of preceding ages. It was the logical result of centuries of experimental governing and the fruition of the most exalted hopes of statesmen of all countries. The great problem of self government was solved at last and the reigns of kings and and proper therefore that the citizens of the vigorous commonwealth of Montana, ust springing to the highest ranks under a glorious constitutional government, should gather together to-day to celebrate the is in town

Mr. Weed then called upon Chief Justice Blake to read the proclamations of Presi-dent Harrison, Gov. White and Mayor Fuller. The judge did as requested.

The song, "Come Thou Almighty
King," was sung by the audience.

Judge McConneil was introduced and made an interesting address. He said the man, would be less than human who, standing on the apex of the first century of constitutional government, would not feel stirred in his inmost soul most pro-American citizen present to stand there and commemorate the greatest event in the history of mankind. The speaker said he had always felt a profound reverence for George Washington—(Applause.)—that great name which is the symbol of that great name which is the symbol o truth, the symbol of patriotism and the symbol of all that is grand and noble. He was a man born in due season to fill an exaited place and lead his people to a higher and more glorious civilization. He was no accident, but the tayored child of an allwise providence, chosen for the good of his heroic people, the children of high heaven. The judge gave an interesting account of Washington's election and his triumphal march from Mount Vernon to New York. He described Washington's nobility and simplicity of character and quoted at length from his inaugural address, dwelling particularly on the clause that pro-claimed "an indissoluble union between the virtues of the people and the prosperity of the nation." The judge's remarks were remarks Professor buell sang "Yankee Doodle" in a delightful manner. Col. Sanders was introduced and made one of his characteristic speeches. He said "I congratulate you that you are drawn by an irresistable impulse into this presence on this occasion. We can truly say with Emerson, 'To-day is a king in disquise.' We have come together not merely to boast of the of the achievements and trace the steps of the past century, but to learn something of the duties of the present and future. While I would not detract from the praises of George Washington, so gracefully sung by Judge McConnell, I would ask you to member his compratiots. George Wash ington was a Hercules of patriotism and a Colossus of common sense. But to appreciate the situation recall the theatre of action in which his civic renown was schieved. At that time the western bounary of America was the Allegheny mounin the United States occupied the gentle slope from the towering Alleghenies to the Atlantic sea. Beyond there were fertile lands occupied by savages. The United States itself stretched across the plains to the mighty Father of Waters and no human mind conceived that it would ever stretch further and plant its flag on the towering peaks of "the shining mountains" where we live today. At the end of 100 years we may filly tains, and the five millions of people then in the United States occupied the gentle slope from the towering Alleghenies to the others that made Washington and his giory possible. His achievements, no mat-ter how grand, were only made possible because of the people whose countryman street, ie was. I know of no picture that shines a history with loftier grave than to see hose patriots, by their devotion, sacraice and self-abnegation, plant upon his brow the laurel that was the embodiment and as-surance of free self-government forever

He made an interesting speech. Rferring to Montana he pointed out the grand opportunity she had to enter into grand opportunity she had to enter into the full privileges guaranteed by constitu-tional government. He said may this state of Montana when her people assemble one hundred years hence and look back over what was done to-day feel proud of the record and congratulate herself that she had thousands of devoted sons who were had thousands of devoted sons who were willing to make any sacrifice for her wel-fare in order as the poet says "to make the The meeting closed with singing the "Star Spangled Banner.

HOW THE GERMANS CELEBRATED. Helena's German citizens observed the day in a patriotic manner. At an early hour in the evening the people began to file into Harmonia hall. Fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers were there to celebrate the occasion in their own happy way. The stars and strives were profusely displayed about the hall and stage, while the old flag of Fatherland might be noticed also. After T. R. Carder, Harry Davis, L. A. After a selection by the orchestra Miss Clara Engle favored the audience with the could sing a little bit joined in the chorus most enthusiastically. Mr. Mathias followed with a characteristic address, and was frequently interrupted by loud applause. Following a patriotic air by the orchestra Miss Clara Engle led in the song "America," all joining in the chorus. Justice Fleischer was next for a speech, and he succeeded in keeping the audience in convulsions of laughter and applause.

Miss Engle and her sister, Mrs. Blume, sang a duet selection from the "Beggar sang a duet selection from the "Beggar Student," which was done so well that they were recalled twice to repeat. Miss Engle, who had captured the audience by her splendid soprano voice, was prevailed upon to give another solo. She sang "Marguerite." This concluded the programme, guerite." This concluded the programme, with the exception of a good old-time Ger-man jollification. The merriment was continued until a late hour.

The Wavely baseball team went down yesterday for a second time before the Marysville club. They were beaten so badly that there is a likelihood of the club disbanding. The Waverlys are a sturdy set of young men, but are only dwarfs compared to their older and more experienced antagonists from Marysville. The latter team bids fair to win the championship of the long experience of Mr. Collins in public that he consented to take Mr. Hewitt's conduct of the campaign of 1876, and his subsequent actions at Washington during that period of political excitement which culminated in the formation of the electoral commission, had given such dissatisfaction to the democratic party that his retirement was desired, especially by the friends of Gov. Tilden. Mr. Barnum declined the honor, and it was only in obedience to the unanimously expressed wish of the committee that he consented to take Mr. Hewitt's team bids fair to win the championship of the long experience of Mr. Collins in public that he consented to take Mr. Hewitt's giving began at 9:30 o'clock. The sword was sheathed; in April's eun Lay green the fields by Freedom won; nd severed sections, weary of debates, ined hands at last and were United States.

O City sitting by the Sev! How proud the day that dawned on thee, When the new ers, long desired, began, And, in its need, the hour had found the man! One thought the cannon salvos spoke;
The resonant beli-tower s vibrant stroke,
The votceful streets, the plaudit-echoing halis,
And prayer and hymn borne heavenward fro
St. Paul's:

How feit the land in every part The streng throb of a nation's heart, As its great leader gave, with reverent awe, His pledge to Union, Liberty and Law! That pledge the heavens above him heard, That vow the sleep o centuries stirred; In world wids wonder listening people bent Their gaze on Freedom's great experiment.

Could it succeed? Of honor sold And hopes deceived all history told. Above the wrecks that strewed the mournful pass Was the long dream of ages true at last? Than's God! the people's choice was just, The one man equal to his trust. Wise beyond lore, and without weakness good, Caim in the strength of flawless rectitude!

His rule of justice, order, peace, Made possible the world's release; Taught prace and serf that power is but a trust, And rule, alone, which serves the ruled, is just; That Freedom generous is, but strong in hate of fraud and selfish wrong. Pretense that turns her holy truths to iles, And lawless license masking in her guiss.

Land of his love! with one glad voice Let thy great sisterhood rejoice; A century a suns o'er thee have risen and set, And, God be praised, we are one nation yet. And still, we trust, the years to be Shall prove his hope was destiny, eaving our flag with all its added stars invent by faction and unetained by ware!

Lo! where with patient toil be nursed And trained the new set plant at first, he widening branches of a stately tree retch from the sunrise to the sunset sea.

And in its broad and sheltering shade, Sitting with none to make sfraid, Were we now silent, through each mighty limb, The winds of heaven would sing the praise of him Our first and best!—his askes lie Beneath his own Virginian sky Forgive, forget, O true and just and brave, The storm that swept above thy sacred grave!

For, ever in the awful strife And dark hours of the astion's life,
